

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a composition for osteoinduction, which comprises a complexed-acidic-phospholipid complex containing calcium, phospholipid, and inorganic phosphate combined with collagen in a composite form. The composition is effective to promote new bone formation upon introduction of the composition into various osseous defects.